New York State Court Backs Religion In School Plan

The New York State Court of Appeals, in a six-to-one decision, upheld the constitutionality of the New York City released-time program under which children may be excused from public school for an hour's religious instruction each week. In majority opinions, the court held that "governmental aid to, and encouragement of, religions generally, as distinguished from establishment or support of separate sects, has never been considered offensive to the American constitutional system."

The court, in its released-time ruling, denied an appeal by Tessim Zorach and Mrs. Esta Gluck, both parents of Brooklyn school children, who contended that the practice of releasing children from school to attend outside religious classes was unconstitutional under a 1948 decision of the United States Supreme Court. Mr. Zorach, a Protestant, and Mrs. Gluck, who is Jewish, asserted that no anti-religious considerations were involved in the action, since their children attended religious schools entirely independent of the public school system.

They contended that the Supreme Court decision invalidated "the use of the tax-supported public school machinery as a recruiting, evangelizing or channeling agency for sectarian groups." In that case, brought by Mrs. Vashti McCollum, the court held that the Champaign, Ill., practice of releasing school children for religious classes constituted the use of tax-supported property for religious instruction, thus violating the constitutional guarantees of separation of church and state, says the New York Times.

Associate Judge Charles S. Desmond noted in a concurring opinion that the McCollum case "is not controlling on us here, since the Champaign, Ill., plan . . . differed from the New York program in a number of important respects, principally in that religious training took place in the classrooms of the Champaign public schools, some public funds were spent in Champaign. The religious teachers there were chosen with the approval of the public school officials, and pupils were, in the Champaign school buildings, solicited for religious instruction."

In the prevailing opinion, Associate Judge Charles W. Froessel said it was "clear beyond cavil that the Constitution does not demand that every friendly gesture between church and state shall be discountenanced."

"This so-called 'wall of separation' may be built so high and so broad as to impair both state and church, as we have come to know them," he added.

"Indeed, we should convert this 'wall', which in our religious nation is designed as a reasonable line of demarcation between friends, into an 'iron curtain' between enemies, were we to strike down this sincere and most scrupulous effort of our state legis-

Israel Is Not At Peace With Germany

Commenting on the Three-Power (United States, France, Great Britain) announcement to the termination of the state of war between them and Germany, a spokesman for the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Israel made the following statement:

"The announcement of the three great Powers concerning the termination of the state of war between them and Germany again focuses attention on Germany's war against the Jewish people persistently pursued and never called off.

"More than eighteen years have elapsed since the Nazi government came to power and anti-Semitism became a major object of German policy. For twelve terrible years Germany pursued that hostile course against the Jewish people with a ruthless persistence that has no parallel in any war waged by one people against another. It spread that vicious creed in every country which fell under its sway and in the end sealed that policy by the slaughter of six million Jews, the bulk of European Jewry.

"Six years after the end of hostilities, the German people have not yet made expiation or reparation for the crimes committed by the Nazis.

"To this day the German people have not found it within themselves to shake off the bloodstained heritage of their erstwhile masters.

"To this day they have not abjured or solemnly dissociated themselves from the appalling record of those twelve years of Nazi rule.

"To this day they continue to enjoy the possession of property they stole from their Jewish victims before they sent them to the death chambers.

"To this day, as many pew of Nazism are rampant in Germany.

"As long as this state of affairs continues, Germany's war against the Jewish people cannot be regarded as having come to an end."

The spokesman recalled the note received from the three Powers on October 24, 1950, and Israel's reply

Asks U.N. To End Blockade Of Oil By Egypt

Israel called on the United Nations Security Council to take steps to end Egypt's "piratical" blockade of oil tankers and other Israel-bound ships passing through the Suez Canal. After weeks of consultation with leading delegations, Israel asked that the Suez Canal case be put on the Council agenda and opened the way for public discussion on Western Europe's fears that its Near East oil supplies would be sharply cut.

The Israeli complaint, addressed to Sir Gladwyn Jebb of Britain, this month's Council president, charged that the blocking of the canal to vessels headed for Israel was a threat to the peace, violated the freedom of the seas, was a breach of the Egyptian-Israeli armistice agreement and endangered the oil-refining capacity of the Near East.

Four Council members—Britain, France, Norway and the United States — already have filed their own individual complaints with Egypt, protesting that their rights as maritime powers were being violated.

Abba S. Eban, Israeli delegate and Ambassador to the United States, told a press conference that the Suez Canal case was not just a local squabble but had wide and important international ramifications. And high on the list, he indicated, was the effect on oil. The Egyptian blockade, Mr. Eban said, was hitting hard at the Haifa refinery in Israel, second largest in the Near East. The largest is the refinery at Abadan, in Iran, and some Western specialists have said the importance of the Haifa plant to Europe would be emphasized as the result of the recent cut in the Abadan production, reports the New York Times.

The Haifa plant has a capacity of [illegible] plant has a capacity of 1,000,000 tons a year but since the Arab-Zionist war had been cut to just a quarter of that because of the closing of the pipeline from Iraq and the restrictions on Israeli-bound traffic imposed by Egypt.

Haifa's present production, according to Mr. Eban, was based on crude oil coming from Venezuela and was enough for Israel's domestic needs but not for Western European customers. He said that the Haifa plant was privately owned, principally by British and French capital, and that France had been one of the biggest customers.

Despite the closing of the pipeline from Iraq, Mr. Eban said, the Haifa refinery would have been able to operate at capacity on crude oil from Kuwait and Bahrein,

Zionists From 45 Countries To Discuss New World Program Next Month

Zionists from forty-five countries will assemble in Jerusalem, August 14 to open the first World Zionist Congress since the establishment of the State of Israel in 1948. This will be the twenty-third Congres since 1897, when the first Congress in Basle, Switzerland, drew up a program affirming that "the object of Zionism is to establish for the Jewish people a public and legally assured home in Palestine." Now that this goal has been achieved, the Zionists will have to decide "where do we go from here?"

None of the 495 delegates is expected to suggest that the Zionist Organization has become an anachronism since the establishment of the Jewish state, says the New York Times. The view of the Zionist leaders is that the birth of Israel on May 14, 1948, did not represent the fulfilment of Zionism but merely created the instrument for the implementation of its mission. The mission, as seen in Israel, is the solution of the Jewish problem in the world through the settlement of dispersed Jews in their homeland.

In the discussion of a new program to replace the Basle program, two issues are expected to come to the fore:

1. The term "Kibbutz Hagaluyot," as against "Kibbutz Galuyot." Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion and other Israelis have been using the former term, which means "Ingathering of the Exiles," and is taken to mean that the entire Diaspora should be liquidated and all Jews transferred to Israel. Most foreign Zionists have been using the more moderate term, which means "Ingathering of Exiles." They take the view that the aim of Zionism is to transfer to Israel only Jews who are compelled or who chose to leave their present homes.
2. Extremists will try to make it clear in the Jerusalem program that the aim is to re-establish the Jewish state in its historical boundaries. This would embar-

Woman Gives Million For Hospital

A $1,000,000 gift for erection of the obstetrical and gynecological building of Sinai Hospital unit of the new Jewish Medical Center in northwest Baltimore was made there by Mrs. Louis Blaustein in memory of her late husband, Baltimore industrialist and philanthropist. It will be known as "The Louis and Henrietta Blaustein Building."

The gift was announced at the annual meeting of the Associated Jewish Charities, held at Lord Baltimore Hotel. Mrs. Blaustein was present, as were members of her family, including her two daughters and their husbands, Dr. and Mrs. Alvin Thalheimer and Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Rosenberg; her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Blaustein, and several of her grandchildren. Jacob Blaustein and Dr. Thalheimer are former presidents of the Associated Jewish Charities, and Henry A. Rosenberg is a former president of the Sinai Hospital.

Mrs. Blaustein's gift brings to $9,000,000 the amount available for the Jewish Medical Center, which it is estimated, will cost $12,000,000. The center, being erected by the Associated Jewish Charities, when completed will include a new Sinai Hospital (replacing the building in East Baltimore), a Mount Pleasant Sanatorium (now situated in Reisterstown) and an enlarged Levindale Hebrew Home and Infirmary (already located on the site of the Medical Center). Building of a Mount Pleasant unit has been begun, and the contract has been awarded for a fifty-bed addition to Levindale.

W.J.C. Warns On Pamphlets From Sweden

The Swedish Section of the World Jewish Congress has issued a circular letter, drawing the attention of Jewish organizations everywhere to the activities of Einar Aberg, who is printing anti-Semitic pamphlets in Sweden and distributing them all over the world. The Congress is in constant touch with Swedish authorities and hopes, eventually, to be able to put a stop to Aberg's activities.

Jewish organizations and individuals are asked to watch out for anti-Semitic pamphlets and, if such literature is encountered, to send it to the Stockholm Office of the World Jewish Congress, even if it is not obvious that it was printed in Sweden, and in case it is clear that a pamphlet has been printed in, and despatched from, Sweden, to make representations to the Swedish Embassy or Legation in the country in question. The Embassies inform the Ministry for Foreign Affairs in Stockholm and the authorities there are thus informed about the harm which Aberg's activities are doing to Swedish prestige abroad. In case complaints to diplomatic representatives are submitted in writing, a copy of this and the reply received should be sent to the Stockholm office of Congress; if personal representations are made, the outcome should also be reported.

The circular adds that, for legal reasons, it is important for pamphlets to reach the World Jewish Congress Stockholm office as quickly as possible, at the latest within three months of its appearance.

RETIRES AS FARM GROUP HEAD

After forty-four years of service with the Jewish Agriculture Society, Dr. Gabriel Davidson retired as managing director. He will handle the Society's interests in Washington. A leader in the Jewish farm movement, Dr. Davidson, through his work as executive of the Society, has been responsible for placing thousands of Jews on farms. He has been managing director since 1939.

He has served as a member of the State Bureau of Farm Information. He has written extensively on the Jewish agricultural movement in the United States, his major work being his book "Our Jewish Farmers." The Jewish Theological Seminary conferred upon him in 1934 the honorary degree of Doctor of Literature.

An agreement between Israel and Uruguay providing for the purchase of 20,000 tons of kosher meat during the next three years was signed at the Uruguayan Foreign Office in Montevideo. A minimum of 1,500 tons every three months will be supplied by Uruguay. Israel has been granted a credit of $2,000,000 for two years by Uruguay according to the terms of the agreement, which also provides that Uruguay shall facilitate the import of Israel goods into Uruguay for up to 20% of Israel's purchases in Uruguay.

All news and advertising omitted this week due to lack of space, will be run in next week's issue.

Water can make or spoil your vacation. If you can swim, it provides fun and good exercise and, in case of emergency, you may be able to save someone else's life as well as your own. There is still time to learn before vacation days.

If you are middle-aged, don't start strenuous week-end athletics. If your week days are spent at sedentary work, take it easy at week-ends, getting plenty of fresh air and reasonable amounts of sunshine.

CLASS IN COOKERY

PICKLED PIMENTOES

one double basket pimentoes
one gallon vinegar
one gallon water
ten cups brown sugar
one pinch salt

Slice pimentoes, seed, and run cold water over them to clean. Combine vinegar, water, sugar, and salt, and bring only to boil. Place pimentoes in sterilized quart jars, about two-thirds full; then pour vinegar mixture into each jar to cover them. Put lids loosely on jars, and place jars in water up to their necks. Allow water to boil for twenty minutes; then take jars out of water and screw lids on tightly. Yields 12 to 14 quarts.

Mrs. A. Orenstein,
1729 Bathurst Street, Toronto.

COTTAGE CHEESE FRUIT DESSERT

three-quarters pound dry cottage cheese one-half cup chopped seedless raisins one cup chopped nut-meats three-quarters cup cut-up candied orange peel one-half cup sour cream
one-half cup butter

Put cheese through a sieve if it is lumpy; and into it blend all the other ingredients, with a pinch of salt; and about a tablespoon of sugar. Line a mold with thick cheese-cloth; and into it pack the cheese mixture. Put a heavy cover over it, so that cheese mixture is pressed down, and let it set overnight in refrigerator. Unmold on a serving dish, and serve cut-up fresh fruit, and plain or whipped cream, with it. This serves eight.

JDC Aids Students In France

Although there are no formal college graduation exercises in France, 36 students among the thousands winning their degrees there this summer will bow figuratively to a vast but unseen audience — those thousands of American Jews who, through their contributions to the United Jewish Appeal, have enabled the Joint Distribution Committee to provide the scholarships they needed to complete their studies. These 36 young Jewish men and women who benefited include 9 dentists and 9 engineers; 6 graduates in science and mathematics; 4 in medicine; 4 in politics and law; and one each in arts, philosophy and letters, pharmacy and veterinary science.

Another 103 needy students, still pursuing courses towards graduation, also benefited from JDC scholarship grants this year through the Union of Jewish Students of France. Among them are 66 future physicians, 16 majoring in science and mathematics, and prospective lawyers, pharmacists, teachers and psychologists. Some 34 of these students will graduate next year; 41 in 1953, and 30 in 1954 or later. Since V-E day, JDC has provided educational stipends for more than 25,200 students in Europe and other areas. Nearly 3,000 were aided during 1950.

In all, JDC has spent some $350,000 since 1945 in a scholarship program embracing 1,500 students in France alone. Because funds are limited, priority is given to those taking courses which will lead to jobs immediately after graduation; to students who, by their own resources, have already started and have made some progress in their particular fields; and to those with very high scholarship ratings.

The "bourslers" (scholarship students) are a reflection of the havoc Nazism wrought among Europe's Jews. Ten are post-TB cases, one is in a special sanitarium serviced by the University of Nice, four others are disabled or handicapped. Yet despite their bitter memories, they are already assuming valuable places in society. One student, a survivor of Buchenwald concentration camp is already doing basic research at the French Cancer Institute; others are being placed in important industrial and professional positions.

Scientific chicken raising is an essential industry for Israel. It is also an industry which requires relatively small amounts of capital investment, and has good prospects to earn foreign exchange through exports. It is an industry vital to Israel and most likely to be profitable for the investor.

A.J.C. SUPPORTS APPEAL FROM FILM BAN

The American Jewish Congress filed a forty-six page brief as a friend of the court with the New York State Court of Appeals, supporting the appeal from the Board of Regents' ban on the film, "The Miracle." "The Miracle," one of a trilogy of films which won the 1950 New York Motion Picture Critics Award, was shown in New York City but after protests from Roman Catholic sources the State Board of Regents revoked the film's license on the ground that it was "sacreligious." The board's action was upheld by the Appellate Division.

The brief, signed by Will Maslow and Leo Pfeffer, counsel for the congress, held that "if the action taken in "The Miracle" case is to stand as a precedent, the state will be compelled to censor every motion picture which any of the hundreds of sects in our population finds offensive." It stated that "Laws penalizing sacrilege fly directly in the teeth of the express statement of the United States Supreme Court that 'the Constitution does not define religion'."

The marriage of Freema Deborah, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Becker, 5365 Victoria Avenue, to Benjamin J. Kaganov, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Kaganov, of Brooklyn, N. Y., took place in the Brittany Room, of the Mount Royal Hotel, on July 3, at three o'clock. Rabbi Charles Bender officiated. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white net cocktail-length gown and a white tulle illusion veil, and carried a white orchid, on a bible. Miss Etta Kaganov, sister of the groom, was maid of honor, wearing a brown marquisette gown, in off-the-shoulder style, with a yellow cap headdress, and carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses. J. J. Spector, K.C., uncle of the groom, was best man. Spring flowers and pink roses decorated the hall; and in the Champlain Room, where the reception was held, there were pink and white seasonal flowers. Receiving, Mrs. Becker, mother of the bride, wore a pale blue shantung taffeta gown, with a matching hat, and corsage of pink roses; and Mrs. Kaganov, mother of the groom, wore a navy-blue lace gown, with a matching hat, and similar corsage. The bride and groom are spending their wedding trip on the European continent, and will live in Montreal. Mr. and Mrs. H. Kaganov, Miss Etta Kaganov, Mr. and Mrs. I. Cohen, all of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. M. Kaganov, and family, of Miami Beach, Florida; and Harry Bain, of Los Angeles, Calif., were present at the wedding.

SHUSTER-SEIDE

The marriage of Miss Helen Diane Seide, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barnett L. Seide, of Flint, Mich., to George Shuster, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Shuster, 928 Pratt Avenue, took place on Monday, June 18, at Congregation Beth Israel, in Flint, Rabbi Arnold Lasker officiating. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white tulle, blended with Chantilly lace, and designed with an overdress of rose-patterned lace. It was fashioned with a deeply-round decollete neckline, bordered with a capelet collar, and a fitted bodice, long, fitted sleeves, and a skirt which swept into a wide, circular train. She had a cap, which held a veil of tulle illusion, and was trimmed with illies-of-the-valley; and she carried two white orchids, with stephanotis. Mrs. Herman Goldberg, of Chicago, Ill., sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a blue chiffon dress, designed with a rounded neckline, encrusted with rhinestone beading, and a matching headdress, and carried pink roses. Mrs. J. Magduff, of Chicago, Ill., and Mrs. Harold Velick, sisters of the bride; Mrs. Leonard Bragman, Miss Elaine Segal; and Mrs. Sol. Seide, of Saginaw, Mich., sister-in-law of the bride, were bridesmaids. They were dressed in pale mauve crepe, sheath-style, with dusters of violet-shaded organza, and had matching headdresses, with bouquets of pink carnations. Norene Goldberg, the junior bridesmaid, wore pink organdy, with a matching bandeau headdress, and had a Colonial nosegay of pink flowers. Edythe Lynn Goldberg and Debra Beth Velick, the flower girls, wore pale green organdy, with matching headdresses, and carried smaller Colonial nosegays. Arnold Shuster, of Montreal, was best man for his brother; and the ushers were Leo and Sol. Seide, brothers of the bride; George Rothbart, Melvin A. Wyndham, and Jack Blumer, of Montreal; and Richard Seide, of Saginaw being a junior usher. After a cocktail hour there was a dinner reception at which four hundred and eighty guests were present; and following that, an evening reception at which two hundred and fifty guests were present. Mrs. Seide, mother of the bride, wore a cinnamon-shaded sheer gown, with mauve hat, and mauve accessories, and mauve orchid corsage. Mrs. Shuster, mother of the groom, wore a rose-mauve lace gown, over matching slip, a matching flowered hat, with a small veil, and matching accessories, and had a yellow orchid corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Shuster left by motor for Miami Florida; and then went to Tower Isle, Jamaica, and will be in Montreal about the end of July, to take up residence at 3335 Ridgewood Avenue. For travelling, the bride wore a blue-grey flannel suit, with a matching blouse, and alligator accessories. She is a graduate of the University of Miami; and Michigan State College. Mr. Shuster was an R. C. A. F. instructor during the war.

TO BE JUDGE OF DESIGN FOR HERZL MEMORIAL

Percival Goodman, prize-winning American architect and illustrator, flew to Israel to join the panel of judges in an international competition for a memorial to be built in Jerusalem, honoring Theodor Herzl, founder of the Zionist movement. Mr. Goodman, winner of the Paris Prize in architecture, was invited by the Jewish Agency for Palestine and will be the only non-Israeli to help select the best design for a crypt, monument and memorial park to be erected on Mount Herzl, Jerusalem, site of Dr. Herzl's grave.

The competition, open to architects the world over, is sponsored by the World Zionist Organization. Fifteen designs submitted by leading American architectural firms have arrived in Israel where drawings from every country are being collected. In addition to Mr. Goodman, the panel of judges consists of seven Israeli architects and Berl Locker, chairman of the Jewish Agency Executive in Jerusalem.

Mr. Goodman, a leading New York architect since 1930, is a member of the faculty of the School of Architecture of Columbia University. Among his major works is a four-and-a-half-million-dollar building group for the Department of Hospitals. In the last five years Mr. Goodman has devoted much of his practice to the design of community centers and houses of worship for Jewish communities throughout the country. During the last four years he has been translating and revising "Histoire de l'Architecture," the classic work by August Choisy, which he hopes to have ready for publication late next year. Mr. Goodman was accompanied by Mrs. Goodman to Israel.

For Natural Birth, Doctor Was Zionist Leader

Dr. Hyman Jacob Epstein, seventy, gynecologist and obstetrician, with offices at 900 Grand Concourse, the Bronx, died at his home, 315 Central Park West. Dr. Epstein, a strong believer in natural childbirth, was one of the organizers of Bronx Hospital, and the director of its gynecology and obstetrics departments from 1926 until 1946.

A native of Lithuania, Dr. Epstein came to America in 1898, and paid his way through the Long Island College of Medicine by selling photographs and contributing to Yiddish newspapers. He was graduated in 1906, and was elected president of the Greater New York Council of the Zionist Organization of America the same year.

Dr. Epstein pursued his literary bent, contributing essays and poetry to newspapers and medical journals, under his own name and the pen name, H. J. Proletaroff. He had served as president of the following medical organizations: the old Doctors' Club, the Bronx County Gynecological and Obstetrical Society, the North Bronx Medical Society, the Ivrith Medical Society of New York and the American Hebrew Speaking Medical Association.

Dr. Epstein was also an organizer of the Order of Sons of Zion, a delegate to the [illegible] Jewish Congress, in 1911, and a member of the American Jewish Committee from 1912 until 1916. He married Dr. Stella Schaffer Epstein, an associate gynecologist at Bronx Hospital.

Besides Mrs. Epstein, a son, David Epstein; a grandson, Rafael Epstein; two brothers and three sisters survive.

CHILD CARE EXPERT GOES TO NEW JOB

The Association for Jewish Children in Philadelphia has appointed as its executive director, Norman V. Lourie, nationally known authority in the field of child care and treatment of emotionally disturbed children.

Since February, 1947, Mr. Lourie has been director of the Hawthorne Cedar-Knolls School in Pleasantville, N. Y., maintained by the Jewish Board of Guardians for the care and treatment of emotionally disturbed children, many of whom have got into trouble with the law in New York City.

At the school Mr. Lourie developed further the program that emphasizes individual treatment and the total living environment. He also promoted the idea that delinquency is not a disease but merely a symptom of emotional illness.

COOLING OFF!

It takes a lot of cooling to keep a Polar Bear happy. This largest member of the bear family is smaller than a porcupine at birth, but often weighs more than three-quarters of a ton when full grown. To this tremendous bulk, add the fact that the bear is covered with a thick, water-proof coat, which is designed to protect him in the Arctic . . . it's a big job keeping him cool in our zoos.

Learn about nature's creatures. Visit the nearest zoo and see them. A whole new world of interest will be opened to you when you understand nature.

CANADIAN SPORTS PARADE

EVER since the Canadian wonder-boy Jack Kent Cooke acquired controlling interest in the Maple Leaf Baseball Club, the rumors have flown thick and fast. Never a retiring type, the radio executive and publisher has threatened to lift the lowly Leafs bodily into the play-offs this year. But, in spite of the dead weight involved in such an undertaking (if Mr. Cooke will pardon us), we think the real problem is far above merely winning or losing a ball game or even a pennant.

Home-Runner

Before launching into our pet cure-all for the Leaf club, let's take a brief glance at the career of the new president of the base-ball organization.

Jack Kent Cooke, 38, believes that anything can be accomplished if you pepper well with enthusiasm, baste with optimism and cooks it to a frazzle. Like his American counterpart, Bill Veeck, Cooke's prime commodity is sales-showmanship. Unlike Veeck, however, Jack has never before ventured into sport promotion and the Maple Leaf Club should test his inventive genius to the limit.

Already a success in radio and publishing (CKEY, NEW LIBERTY), Cooke nevertheless brings little more than his boundless enthusiasm to his present undertaking. However, that, alone may again prove a successful formula.

Admittedly, all was not flowers, moonlight and cheers when the announcement was made that Cooke had taken over the ball club but we believe that Joe Ziegler, Becker, Gord Walker and the rest of the management staff will really enjoy working for this 20th Century whizz-bang. There are flat feet all over Canada attesting to Jack Cooke's drive and energy.

Stadium Plans

Messrs. Cooke and Ziegler plan, ultimately, to make Maple Leaf Stadium a mecca for the whole family. Music will be piped throughout the park during intermissions in play. Registered nurses will check your children at the entrance gate and house and entertain the tots (under ultra-violet lamps), until the game finishes. There's even a rumor that Jack C. will install barber chairs in the boxes with the suggestion that the implied manchalance of the Toronto fans will ride the visiting team into a lather.

But, in our opinion, all these great ideas may fail in the long haul unless President Jack Cooke faces up to the fact that baseball in Canada is still an American product. As a Canadian himself, Mr. Cooke must realize that our International League entries will always lack the sure-fire emotional appeal of Canadians playing for Canada's teams. Perhaps the new President will do something about it.

Canadian Talent

Nationally, we Canadians are in a sporting mess. Hockey is the only game we really control. Our football game has come to depend on American quarterbacks and other imported, high-priced help, so the promoter who realizes that Canadian sport fans will pay more to watch Canadian talent, will hit the jackpot.

We hope that baseball's Jack Cooke will give this tested theory his most dynamic punch.

Agreed, it can't be accomplished overnight but, if the indication is shown and Canadian baseball players are encouraged, then, one by one, our youngsters can ease into Maple Leaf uniforms where they belong. It follows, that win, lose or draw, there will be no dearth of interest in baseball in Canada. Man for man, Canadians are the best sport fans in the world.

Make it your number one crusade, Mr. Cooke!

Has The Synagogue Failed?

BY DR. SIMON GREENBERG, EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR, UNITED SYNAGOGUE OF AMERICA

It is generally assumed that the Synagogue in America has failed. "Facts" aplenty are adduced to prove the assumption. Attendance at services is pitifully small. Personal piety is almost non-existent. The ritual of the synagogue is altogether strange to the vast majority of both old and young. Many "reasons" are adduced for this failure. We are told that Religion has not kept pace with the times. The services are too long. Their language is not understood. The ceremonies are not impressive. The music is poor.

None of these facts can be gain-said. Some of the "reasons" may be questioned, especially, since there seems to be little difference in attendance at services whether the ritual is all in Hebrew or mostly in English; whether the service is short or long; whether the music is excellent or indifferent.

But the vitality of an institution is not to be judged merely by its measurable achievement. One has to know the goals that have been set and the obstacles that are to be overcome before the goal is attained. What Carlyle said when writing about the apparent "failure" of the life of Robert Burns may well be applied to the Synagogue on the American scene: "Granted the ship comes into the harbor with shrouds and tackle damaged; the pilot is blameworthy; he has not been all-wise and all-powerful; but to know how blameworthy, tell us first whether his voyage has been round the globe, or only to Ramsgate and the Isle of Dogs". We would add one more item. "Tell us how well was he equipped for his journey."

Now the Synagogue has as its goals the highest reaches of the human spirit. It asks individuals constantly to be self-critical, never to be satisfied with the moral or spiritual stature they have already attained. The Synagogue strives to influence every thought and act of man in the direction of purity, goodness, mercy and justice.

It demands that he exercise his intellect, that he seek knowledge, that he practice self-restraint. The modern Synagogue refuses to appeal to man's sense of fear of the unknown. It almost dreads the possibility that its prayers may be viewed by worshippers as magic formulas to appease a displeased deity.

And it has been attempting to maintain these high standards in a generation that has been taught that a sense of sin or of guilt is a dangerous "inferiority complex", in an atmosphere in which the good life is equated with the "successful" life, and the "successful" life is judged primarily by the amount of wealth one accumulates.

The Synagogue has asked man to humble when all their achievements in the applied sciences have made them extraordinarily proud. It wants men to study and prepare themselves with knowledge of the language, the history, the ideals of its tradition, in order to benefit from its services. It makes these demands of a generation which at every turn is offered opportunities that require nothing more of them than to relax and be entertained.

Moreover, the Synagogue is expected to overcome these tremendous obstacles and attain its exalted goals with a minimum of equipment. Synagogues are well-nigh universally understaffed, especially in their educational departments. National Synagogue organizations have not had the resources or the vision to supply the needs of the local congregations.

The "pilots" too, have been blameworthy. We have no apologies to offer for the shortcomings of the modern spiritual and lay leaders of the Synagogue. They, too, must be constantly reminded of the prayer, "Let us search and examine our ways".

But the failure of the Synagogue, in essence, is due to the fact that its goal is the ultimate goal of human striving: the establishment upon this earth of the reign of justice, freedom and peace; what our tradition terms the Kingdom of God. Until that day shall have arrived, the Synagogue will have to think of itself as having failed. In the meantime, the Synagogue continues to be the only institution whose chief task is that of keeping that vision and ideal alive in our midst.

To "fail" because one strives to move a mountain, even though he is provided with only a pick axe and wheelbarrow, is no disgrace. Disgraceful failure consists in yielding to temptations, submitting to despair or in remaining satisfied with the tools at one's disposal. Beyond that, the Synagogue can truthfully say "What I aspired to be and was not comforts me".

ZIONISTS

rass Government leaders like Foreign Minister Moshe Sharett, who are striving for a peace treaty with King Abdullah, whose Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan is in the territory coveted by these Zionist irredentists.

Another matter to be settled at the Congress is the question of the Zionist Organization's scope and authority. Before Israel gained its independence, the Zionist Organization was the supreme policy-making instrument in all matters affecting the Jewish National Home. Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver, as chairman of the United States section of the executive branch and Mr. Ben-Gurion, who was chairman of the Jerusalem section, had equal voices in shaping policy.

But after Mr. Ben-Gurion became Prime Minister of a sovereign Israel, he pointedly declined to consult his former colleagues on policy.

His position is that the rescue of Jews from Communist and Moslem countries and their transfer to Israel is as much the responsibility of the Jews of the United States as those of Israel. The only compensation foreign Zionists have a right to expect is an assurance that they may go to Israel if they choose, he holds, and until they choose to migrate, they should have no voice in shaping Israeli policy.

Leading the fight against Mr. Ben-Gurion will be Dr. Silver, who resigned the chairmanship of the Jewish Agency's American section in 1949 after Mr. Ben-Gurion had supported a non-Zionist, Henry Morgenthau Jr., against him in the dispute over control of the United Jewish Appeal, according to the New York Times.

Dr. Silver maintains that the non-Zionists who jumped on the bandwagon in 1947 when it became fashionable to support Israel cannot be depended upon to continue their support. Only a Zionist organization can be relied upon to back Israel through thick and thin, he feels. Therefore, he argues, Mr. Ben-Gurion's plan, which virtually would reduce the Zionist Organization to a fund-raising body, may prove disastrous.

The American Zionist leader wants the Government of Israel to accord a special status to the Zionist Organization by means of a legislative act. He wants power of execution and policy-making for the Zionist Organization in spheres of activity the Government would entrust to it—such as immigration and land settlement, propaganda work abroad and the training of prospective immigrants.

The division on the relationship between the Zionist Organization and the Israel Government is not between foreign Zionists and the people of Israel, but between political supporters of the Mapai (Socialist) party, which controls the Government, and the Opposition.

NEW YORK STATE

lators . . . to find an accommodation between constitutional prohibitions and the right of parental control over children."

Judge Froessel noted that the First Amendment to the Constitution not only forbids laws respecting an establishment of religion but also laws "prohibiting the free exercise thereof."

"We must not destroy one in an effort to preserve the other," his opinion continued. "We cannot, therefore, be unmindful of the constitutional rights of those many parents in our state — we are told that some 200,000 children are enrolled in the released-time programs in this jurisdiction, and ten times as many throughout the nation — who participate in and subscribe to such programs."

Judge Froessel asserted that parents had the right to educate their children in religious or parochial schools, says the New York Times. He said it was therefore obvious "that parents, who desire to have their children educated in the public schools but to withdraw them therefrom for the limited period of only one hour a week in order to receive religious instruction, may ask the public school for such permission, and the school may constitutionally accede to this parental request.

"There is nothing in the Constitution commanding that religious instruction may be given on the Sabbath alone, and no other day," he wrote.

In a dissenting opinion, Associate Judge Stanley Fuld asserted that "time has taught, and the Supreme Court by its decision in the McCollum case has reaffirmed, the wisdom and necessity of maintaining a 'wall . . . high and impregnable' between church and state, between public school secular education and religious observance and teaching."

"Maintenance of that barrier was believed by the Supreme Court, as earlier it had been by the founding fathers, not as a demonstration of hostility to religion, but rather as a means of assuring complete freedom of religious worship," he wrote. "Whether the released-time program in New York City breaches that barrier is the only issue before us. I believe that it does."

in the Persian gulf area, if the closing of the Suez Canal had not cut off those sources. He said that Egypt was guilty of "piratical" acts by preventing tankers from going through the canal on Israeli business. He warned that if Haifa as well as Abadan dried up, there would be a serious oil shortage in Western Europe.

Mr. Eban said Egypt had reportedly "blacklisted" fifty-two ships for trading with Israel. He said this was a "deterrent" to ship captains who would refuse to load cargo for Israel when they knew that their ships would be denied repair and refueling services by the Egyptian authorities and would be refused access to Egyptian ports.

He said ship owners also feared confiscation and removal of ships by the Egyptian authorities, and said there were "disquieting signs" that Egypt intended to extend blockade and "piratical acts" to other waters. He accused Egypt of "forcibly" taking a ship in tow and of being responsible for "scuffles" aboard ships, according to the New York Herald Tribune.

The Israeli protest accused Egypt of violating international law, the Suez Canal convention of 1888 and the Egyptian-Israel general armistice agreement in detaining, visiting and searching ships seeking to pass through the canal on the grounds that their cargoes are destined for Israel.
